Parenting Interventions for Diverse Populations

I. COURSE DESCRIPTION

The goal of this course is for students to learn how to collaborate with parents to raise healthy and successful children. To do this, you will develop knowledge of parenting and parenting interventions. Specifically, you will learn 1) the science of parenting and families; 2) the science of parenting interventions; and 3) specific parenting skills that promote healthy and successful child development.

- 1) The science of parenting and families refers to theories and empirical studies of parenting. Why is parenting important? What shapes parenting? How does parenting influence children? We will also consider the diversity of families, exploring two major issues: the cultural norms, values and beliefs of a specific group and the social context of a specific group. How does parenting differ across cultural groups? How do experiences of discrimination impact parents? How do parents raise healthy children in the context of systemic issues like racism and xenophobia? Our consideration of diversity will position us to critically analyze the science of parenting, recognizing that knowledge has been rooted in dominant Westernized ideologies and presented as “truth.”
- 2) The science of parenting interventions refers to theories and empirical studies of evidence-based interventions. What makes an intervention evidence-based? What are the more common evidence-based parenting interventions? Why is evidence necessary in selecting an intervention? What are the limitations of relying on evidence-based interventions?
- 3) Specific parenting skills are those skills that have been shown, in research studies, to promote positive child outcomes. They are the skills taught in evidence-based parenting interventions. You will learn and practice these skills, which can be used as part of or independent of an evidence-based parenting intervention.

II. COURSE OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of this course, students will:

- 1) be familiar with parenting theory as applied to interventions aimed at enhancing parenting competencies
- 2) understand how contextual characteristics shape parenting
- 3) think critically about existing interventions and their fit for diverse populations

- 4) understand how interventions may be adapted to fit the needs of diverse populations

III. TEACHING METHODS

This class will be taught using an anti-racist pedagogical lens. That means that we will: 1) disrupt assumptions about the 'objectivity' of knowledge; 2) develop awareness and reflection of our individual social positions; 3) decenter authority so that even as the professor, I am engaged in the learning process with you; 4) critically think, analyze, synthesize, and apply ideas, drawing on individual and collective student and professor experiences; and 5) emphasize collaboration over competition.

In following this pedagogical approach, I am committed to getting to know you and helping you get to know me, listening and learning from you, challenging you, inspiring you to think in new ways, and drawing inspiration from you. I invite you to enter this class with a commitment to and excitement for learning, and unlearning, what "good" parenting is.

IV. REQUIRED TEXT AND MATERIALS

Required reading sources are noted in the "Bibliography" of this syllabus and are available online through the library and on Canvas.

V. COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Overview

- 1) Reading reflections: Students will read and reflect on the assigned chapters from the Handbook of Parenting in the form of written reflection statements.
- 2) Opinion pieces: Students will express their opinions on specific parenting issues in the form of written op-ed style pieces.
- 3) Parenting skills video series: Students will work in groups to demonstrate their mastery of parenting skills in the form of short video recordings illustrating their use of the skill.
- 4) Parenting in the Real World audio-visual presentation: Students will conduct a parent interview and present their findings in the form of an audio-visual recording.
- 5) Parenting Interventions for Marginalized Populations research paper: Students will conduct a literature review on parenting interventions with their population of interest and suggest adaptations based on the lived experiences of that population in the form of a research paper.

Rubrics

- 1) Reading reflections. Read the assigned chapter(s). Offer one reflection for each chapter assigned from the Handbook of Parenting. Reflections prompts include: an example from your life or from the life of someone you know that illustrates a concept (or the opposite) from the reading; an experience you or someone you know has had that might help others in the class understand a concept in the reading; or something from news or other media that relates to the reading. Each reflection should be 3-5 complete sentences. Each reflection is worth .5 points. Reading reflections comprise 10% of your overall grade.
- 2) Opinion pieces. Write four opinion pieces addressing the following questions: What is the public's role in holding parents accountable? (Op-Ed #1); Should parents be allowed to spank their children? (Op-Ed #2); Who do children need in their families? (Op-Ed #3); How can health professionals better support BIPOC parents? (Op-Ed #4). Op-Eds may be written individually or jointly with another student of your choice. In the case of co-authored pieces, identical grades will be assigned to both students. Each opinion piece should be between 700-800 words; express a clear opinion on the question; and provide support for the expressed opinion in the form of evidence. Evidence may be of any nature (personal observation, theory, research findings) but you must reference at least one scientific source. Each opinion piece is worth 4 points. Opinion pieces comprise 16% of your grade. You can find more guidance on writing Op-Eds here.

- 3) Parenting skills video series. Design and record a video series of clinical parenting skills for your selected “population of interest.” The video series is intended to mimic a how-to resource for parents and thus should be designed with the specific characteristics of your “population of interest” in mind. You will be working with a group for this assignment. A design guide is available on Canvas. The series should include 4 videos of 5 – 10 minutes each; demonstrate the correct use of each skill; and have design and content features that would be engaging and relevant specifically to your “population of interest.” This video series is worth 22 points to comprise 22% of your grade.
- 4) Parenting in the Real World audio-visual presentation. Prepare an audio-visual presentation of a parent interview. The interview is intended to help you obtain a first-person perspective on the experience of raising a child and should be with a parent from your selected “population of interest.” An interview guide is available on Canvas. After completing the interview, prepare an audio-visual recording that includes slides and a narrative. Presentations should be approximately 10 minutes long; provide a clear description of the social identities and demographic characteristics of the parent and their child; provide a clear description of the unique strengths, challenges and needs of the parent and child; present the parent’s reactions to your video series; conclude with recommendations for how to feasibly promote the use of evidence-based clinical parenting skills in this and similar families. The audio-visual recording is worth 22 points to comprise 22% of your grade.
- 5) Parenting Interventions for Marginalized Populations research paper. Write a research paper based on a review and critical analysis of the literature on parenting interventions for your selected “population of interest.” Your paper is intended to describe the major scientific findings related to parenting and parenting interventions with your “population of interest,” and to propose ways to improve interventions for the population. A guide to writing research papers is available on Canvas. Your bibliography and outline is due in advance of the paper and must be approved by the professor. Research papers should be between 10 – 15 double-spaced pages and include at least 6 references of scientific articles. The paper must describe special issues/considerations relevant to working with parents of that population; review past studies on parenting interventions with that population, emphasizing strengths and limitations of past efforts; and propose adaptations to an existing evidence-based parenting intervention that reflect the special issues relevant to that population. The research paper is worth a of 30 points to comprise 30% to your overall grade.

Due Dates. Due dates are indicated in the course schedule. Students are expected to turn in all required assignments via Canvas, before the beginning of class. If you anticipate a challenge in meeting a due date, please contact me so that we may adjust the deadline (as possible).

Otherwise, assignments that are not submitted by the due date will be considered late and subject to a point deduction.

VII. CLASS POLICIES

Diversity, Equity and Inclusion. Consistent with the values of social work, I am committed to creating a classroom environment that supports and affirms diversity, equity and inclusion. By diversity, I refer to the myriad ways in which humans differ in attributes that are visible and invisible, including race, ethnicity, nationality, citizenship, gender and gender identity, sexual orientation, religion, age, socioeconomic background, and ability. Diversity in thought is also encouraged. Equity in access to learning opportunities, and inclusion in virtual and physical learning spaces, is a student’s right. All students are expected to uphold these principles, both individually and collectively. Students are asked to voice concerns directly to me as soon as they arise so that they may be addressed appropriately.

Attendance, Punctuality and Participation. The class experience is co-constructed and students are expected to attend, arrive on time, and participate in class. Students also are expected to complete the readings and other assignments prior to class in order to be well prepared to participate in discussions and experiential learning assignments. If you have challenges that interfere with these expectations, please contact me so that we may identify appropriate solutions.

Communication with the Professor. Open communication with the professor is encouraged. I am available outside of class to discuss class materials, class expectations, course requirements, and class performance. Student feedback is welcome. You are encouraged to provide feedback via Canvas, email, phone, or individual meetings.

If this applies to you, please reach out to request flexibility in attendance and assignments.

VIII. UNIVERSITY POLICIES

THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS HONOR CODE. The core values of The University of Texas at Austin are learning, discovery, freedom, leadership, individual opportunity, and responsibility. Each member of the university is expected to uphold these values through integrity, honesty, trust, fairness, and respect toward peers and community.

DOCUMENTED DISABILITY STATEMENT. Any student who requires special accommodations must obtain a letter that documents the disability from the Services for Students with Disabilities area of the Division of Diversity and Community Engagement (471- 6259 voice or 471-4641 TTY for users who are deaf or hard of hearing). A student should present the letter to the professor at the beginning of the semester so that needed accommodations can be discussed and followed. The student should remind the professor of any testing accommodations no later than five business days before an exam. For more information, visit: <http://diversity.utexas.edu/disability/>.

PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT AND CIVILITY IN THE CLASSROOM. The professor expects students to act as professionals in class. This means students should arrive on time for class, be prepared to participate in the class discussion, and show respect for one another's opinions. A course brings together a group of diverse individuals with various backgrounds. Students are influenced and shaped by such factors as race, ethnicity, gender, sex, physical abilities, religious and political beliefs, national origins, and sexual orientations, among others. We expect to learn from each other in an atmosphere of positive engagement and mutual respect. This atmosphere includes working intentionally to recognize and dismantle racism, sexism, heterosexism, and ableism in the classroom. Social Work also deals with complex and controversial issues. These issues may be challenging and uncomfortable, and it would be impossible to offer a substantive classroom experience that did not include potentially difficult conversations relating to challenging issues. In this environment, we will be exposed to diverse ideas and opinions, and sometimes we will not agree with the ideas expressed by others. Nevertheless, the professor requires that students engage one another with civility, respect, and professionalism.

UNANTICIPATED DISTRESS. Students may experience unexpected and/or distressing reactions to course readings, videos, conversations, and assignments. If so, students are encouraged to inform the professor. The professor can be responsive and supportive regarding students' participation in course assignments and activities, but students are responsible for communicating clearly what kind of support is desired. If counseling is needed, students may contact a service provider of their choosing, including the UT Counseling Center at 512-471-3515 or online at <https://cmhc.utexas.edu/>.

POLICY ON SOCIAL MEDIA AND PROFESSIONAL COMMUNICATION. Public social networks are not private. Even when open only to approved or invited members, users cannot be certain that privacy will exist among the general membership of sites. If social work students choose to participate in such forums, please assume that anything posted can be seen, read, and critiqued. What is said, posted, linked to, commented on, uploaded, subscribed to, etc., can be accessed and archived, posing potential harm to professional reputations and prospective careers.

Social work students who use social media (e.g. Facebook, Twitter, Instagram) and other forms of electronic communication (e.g. blogs) must be mindful of how their communication may be perceived by clients, colleagues, faculty, and others. Social work students are expected to make every effort to minimize material which could be considered inappropriate for a professional social worker in training. Because of this, social work students are advised to manage security settings at their most private levels and avoid posting information/photos or using any language that could jeopardize their professional image.

Students are asked to consider the amount of personal information posted on these sites and are obliged to block any client access to involvement in the students' social networks. Client material should not be referred to in any form of electronic media, including any information that might lead to the identification of a client or compromise client confidentiality in any way. Additionally, students must critically evaluate any material that is posted regarding community agencies and professional relationships, as certain material could violate the standards set by the School of Social Work, the Texas Code of Conduct for Social Workers, and/or the NASW Code of Ethics.

Social work students should consider that they will be representing professional social work practice as well as The University of Texas at Austin School of Social Work program while in the classroom, the university community, and the broader area communities.

POLICY ON SCHOLASTIC DISHONESTY. Students who violate University rules on scholastic dishonesty are subject to disciplinary penalties, including the possibility of failure in the course and/or dismissal from the University. Since such dishonesty harms the individual, all students, and the integrity of the University, policies on scholastic dishonesty will be strictly enforced. For further information, the student may refer to the Web Site of the Student Judicial Services, Office of the Dean of Students: <http://deanofstudents.utexas.edu/sjs/>.

SHARING OF COURSE MATERIALS IS PROHIBITED. No materials used in this class, including, but not limited to, lecture hand-outs, videos, assessments (quizzes, exams, papers, projects, homework assignments), in-class materials, review sheets, and additional problem sets, may be shared online or with anyone outside of the class without the professor's explicit, written permission. It is the view of this university that unauthorized sharing of materials promotes cheating, and thus it is a violation of the University's Student Honor Code and an act of academic dishonesty. Any materials found online that are associated with a given student, or any suspected unauthorized sharing of materials, will be reported to Student Conduct and Academic Integrity in the Office of the Dean of Students. These reports can result in sanctions, including failure in the course.

USE OF COURSE MATERIALS. The materials used in this course, including, but not limited to exams, quizzes, and homework assignments, are copyright protected works. Any unauthorized duplication of the course materials is a violation of federal law and may result in disciplinary action being taken against the student. Additionally, the sharing of course materials without the specific, express approval of the professor may be a violation of the University's Student Honor Code and an act of academic dishonesty, which could result in further disciplinary action. This sharing includes, among other things, uploading class materials to websites for the purpose of distributing those materials to other current or future students.

CLASSROOM CONFIDENTIALITY. Information shared in class about agencies, clients, and personal matters is considered confidential per the NASW Code of Ethics on educational supervision and is protected by regulations of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) as well. As such, sharing this information with individuals outside of the educational context is not permitted. Violations of confidentiality could result in actions taken according to the policies and procedure for review of academic performance located in sections 3.0, 3.1, and 3.2 of the Standards for Social Work Education.

CLASS RECORDINGS. Class recordings are reserved only for students in this class for educational purposes and are protected under FERPA. The recordings should not be shared outside the class in any form. Violation of this restriction by a student could lead to Student Misconduct proceedings.

USE OF E-MAIL FOR OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO STUDENTS. Email is recognized as an official mode of university correspondence; therefore, students are responsible for reading their email for university and course-related information and announcements. Students are responsible for keeping the university informed about a change of e-mail address. Students should check their e-mail regularly and frequently—daily, but at minimum twice a week—to stay current with university-related communications, some of which may be time-sensitive. Students can find UT Austin’s policies and instructions for updating their e-mail address at <http://www.utexas.edu/its/policies/emailnotify.php>.

RELIGIOUS HOLIDAYS. By UT Austin policy, students must notify the professor of a pending absence at least fourteen days prior to the date of observance of a religious holy day. If the student must miss a class, examination, work assignment, or project in order to observe a religious holy day, the professor will give the student an opportunity to complete the missed work within a reasonable time after the absence.

TITLE IX REPORTING. In accordance with Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, the University of Texas at Austin is committed to maintaining a learning environment that is free from discriminatory conduct on the basis of sex <https://titleix.utexas.edu/>. Faculty, field instructors, staff, and/or teaching assistants in their supervisory roles are mandated reporters of incidents of sex discrimination, sexual harassment, sexual violence, stalking, dating violence, or any other forms of sexual misconduct. Students who report such incidents will be informed of University resources. Incidents will be reported to the University’s Title IX Coordinator. Further information, including student resources related to Title IX, may also be found at <https://titleix.utexas.edu/>.

CAMPUS CARRY POLICY. The University’s policy on concealed firearms may be found here: <https://campuscarry.utexas.edu>. You also may find this information by accessing the Quick Links menu on the School’s website.

SAFETY. As part of professional social work education, students may have assignments that involve working in agency settings and/or the community. As such, these assignments may present some risks. Sound choices and caution may lower risks inherent to the profession. It is the student's responsibility to be aware of and adhere to policies and practices related to agency and/or community safety. Students should notify the professor regarding any safety concerns.

BEHAVIOR CONCERNS ADVICE LINE (BCAL). If students have concerns about their behavioral health, or if they are concerned about the behavioral health of someone else, students may use the Behavior Concerns Advice Line to discuss by phone their concerns. This service is provided through a partnership between the Office of the Dean of Students, the Counseling and Mental Health Center (CMHC), the Employee Assistance Program (EAP), and The University of Texas Police Department (UTPD). Call 512-232-5050 or visit <http://www.utexas.edu/safety/bcal>.

EMERGENCY EVACUATION POLICY. Occupants of buildings on the UT Austin campus are required to evacuate and assemble outside when a fire alarm is activated or an announcement is made. Please be aware of the following policies regarding evacuation:

- Familiarize yourself with all exit doors in the classroom and the building. Remember that the nearest exit door may not be the one you used when entering the building.
- If you require assistance to evacuate, inform the professor in writing during the first week of class.
- In the event of an evacuation, follow the professor’s instructions.
- Do not re-enter a building unless you are given instructions by the Austin Fire Department, the UT Austin Police Department, or the Fire Prevention Services office.

COVID CAVEATS. To help keep everyone at UT and in our community safe, it is critical that students report COVID-19 symptoms and testing, regardless of test results, to University Health Services, and faculty and staff report to the HealthPoint Occupational Health Program (OHP) as soon as possible. Please see this link to understand what needs to be reported. In addition, to help understand what to do if a fellow student in the class (or the instructor or TA) tests positive for COVID, see this University Health Services link.
